A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

A TITIAN OWNED BY INDIANS.

The Great Art Treasure Hidden Away in a Mexican Village Church.

Tzintzuntzan was once a great city and the capital of Tarascan kings; now only a straggling village with a group of ruined churches. I made my way quickly to the old tower where the Titian treasure is, the populace following in my wake or gazing after me with wondering eyes. My carefully studied salutation, in Spanish, a handful of cigars and a bottle of wine soon made the padre and myself the best of friends. He seemed to know before I asked him that I wanted to see the picture, and opened the high arched door of carved wood which led to a patio or court.

Here, seated on mats spread on the stone paving of a pillared and arched corridor, were fifteen or twenty women with their work, braiding mats and hats or coloring feathers. As was explained, they were doing penance. They bowed reverently as the padre passed. I thought he did not look like a hard task master, and, perhaps, did not care how long they staid, as his life is a lonely one at best and their penance surely was not his.

A little surpliced Indian boy came with a lighted candle, the padre led the way, and a wondering little procession followed through a dark corridor that led up to another massive door, barred and chained and padlocked. We were back in ancient feudal days, it seemed, and some old castle had opened to us. It might be that the clanking chains and rusty, creaking hinges were on our prison doors, but the boy held the tallow dip high and showed the padre's kindly face, that reassured us that we were only at Tzintzuntzan in search of a Titian.

The door opened into an inner room as dark as night. The padre unfastened a grated window and a flood of golden sunlight came from over the western hills beyond the lake and fell upon the picture. Such coloring, such feeling could only come from a master hand. Whose? Tradition says Titian, and presented by Philip II of Spain. Eminent men, authors and artists agree. We had seen the Titian at Tzintzuntzan, and it was worth the coming for.

The padre closed the window and the door after us, locked and chained it again, the boy held up his flickering torch and we marched out, leaving the padre and his treasures as a dream too unreal to be true. An effort has been made to buy the painting, and $50,000 was offered by the bishop of Mexico, but the faithful, devoted Indians refused, and the price that bought "The Angelus" would be no temptation. "The Entombment" is some hundreds of years older, is the work of an old master and is big enough (the figures are all life size) to make a hundred of "The Angelus."—Toronto Globe.

Interesting to Steel Manufacturers.

A very ingenious device has been introduced that will prove of great value to steel manufacturers. In the formation of cast steel ingots, especially those containing a large proportion of carbon, it is common for the shrinkage of the metal when poured into the ingot mold to form a cavity or cavities in the upper end of the ingot, and if such cavity be exposed to the atmosphere its walls become speedily oxidized, and in that condition are incapable of welding closely.

The new idea is to chill the top of the casting, and then turn the ingot upside down before it is solidified. The cavity then forms in the other end of the ingot, where its walls are fully protected against the oxidizing influence of the atmosphere. The molds are arranged in such a manner that the cavity is formed in a stud or projection at one end of the ingot. In order to protect the metal first poured in from hardening too rapidly a cup of refractory material is placed in the bottom of the mold.—New York Telegram.

Wise Expense.

The old Latin proverb, "Difficilia quæ pulchra," has often been set as a "copy" for high school boys and girls. The idea in it is that "the best things are hard to get," and certainly a good personal education usually implies a sacrificing parent, reading Sweden and noticing the care for educating children, who were gathered up from the streets and highways and placed in school, inquired if it was not costly.

"Yes," was the answer, "it is costly, but not dear. We Swedes are not rich enough to allow a child to grow up in ignorance, misery and crime, to become a scourge to society as well as a disgrace to himself."

It was an English judge who first said, "A boy is better unborn than untaught."—Youth's Companion.

Shelling Peas by Machine.

An Albany firm has gotten out a patent on a device for shelling peas. The novelty about this machine is that the peas are cut down like wheat or barley, and the vine and pea are all fed into the machine, which separates the green pea from the vine and pod perfectly fine and clean. The machines are large, being 16 feet long, 11 high and 6 wide. The company do not sell these machines, but let them out on a royalty, and they are in great demand in all places where canned goods are put up, as they make a very great saving in the harvesting of peas.—New York Telegram.

One of the recent applications of electricity that promises to be of considerable benefit to seagoing men is a log for registering the rate of travel of high speed vessels.

An Amusing Mistake.

It is an amusing thing—this mistaking a stranger for some one you know or it is amusing to see some one else do so.

And did you ever notice the difference between men and women in the way in which they get around the mistake?

A man will go up to another one and say:

"Why, how do you do?"

As he puts out his hand the other man takes it and gives it a cordial shake and says:

"How do you do? How are you? It is a fine day. Let me see—where have I met you?"

When they come to compare their mental notes they discover that they never have met anywhere, but they sit down and discuss politics and religion, or anything else, with the same freedom as if meeting was an every day occurrence.

A woman will bow to another, thinking she has met her before, and unless the one is taken completely off guard she will draw herself up in the haughtiest manner and say, "You are mistaken." The first one blushes and apologizes and settles down thoroughly convinced of the enormity of the crime of making a simple mistake.

If one is taken unawares, however, and thinks possibly she has met the very cordial greeter somewhere, she evinces much more tact than does a man under the same circumstances. She returns the cordial handshake and lets the other woman do the talking until something is said by which she can recall the former meeting, or trusts to luck in not letting the woman discover her mistake.—Chicago Herald.

The Panther Wouldn't Let Him Sleep.

Deputy marshals who work in the Indian country lead a hard life. Accommodations are not always to be had. Tom Smith told a reporter of an adventure he had.

Night overtook him near an old cabin, but as the Indian custom of burying the dead in their houses and then moving away flashed upon him he decided to sleep under a tree some little distance, and thus avoid a possible interview with an aboriginal spook. In the night a rain set in, and he got up and went in the cabin, and shut the door to keep out the rain and water. He wrapped his blanket around him and lay down. Presently he heard a growling and whining, but he paid no attention to it. The whines and growls grew fierce and louder; but he lay quiet, trying to go to sleep. The animal ran around the walls, scratching and yelling in a way to make one feel very uncomfortable, and make such a thing as sleep impossible. It was a panther.

Finally Smith concluded that the beast was not going to be quiet and let him rest, so he got up and opened the door and let it out. Then he lay down and slept without further disturbance until morning.—Cor. Fort Worth Gazette.

Indians as Smokers.

Every Indian worships tobacco. Give the Sioux a sufficiency of beef and tobacco and there will be no more war between them and the United States. They do not get any tobacco from the government in these days, so they sell what little else they do have, and with the proceeds procure cigarettes and tobacco. It used to be that the red man was satisfied with dried red willow bark, but he has been civilized very materially, and now insists on the best brands of the most thoroughly cultivated and manufactured weed.

Some of the older fellows still mix the willow with their smoke—they prefer the kinnick-kinnick—but the younger men take the tobacco straight. Their love for cigarettes amounts almost to a passion, and yet the Indian is master of the situation. He can smoke enough cigarettes to kill every dude on the face of the earth, go on the warpath for a couple of months and starve, and yet turn up with a physique that seems uninjured. The suggestion that unlimited cigarettes were cheaper than soldiers thus falls to the ground and becomes valueless.—Washington Star.

[illegible] occurred in front of the Gedney house. A handsome young lady, stylishly attired, was walking down Broadway, and a young man, equally captivating in his way, was coming up town. They met in front of the aforesaid hotel, and as they passed the youth deftly slipped his hand into the girl's pocket and drew her pocketbook from it. It was done before the very eyes of twenty astonished guests of the hotel, but before they had time even to express their surprise at the young man's audacity he turned with a polite bow to the young lady, handed her the purse, gave her a mild warning not to be so careless in the future and passed on.—New York Continent.

Boston's Historic Playground.

There is one thing about the Boston common of which Boston people are very proud, and they may be forgiven for telling strangers about it pretty frequently and persistently. In summer you will see no signs of "Keep off the grass" on the common. People are allowed to go wherever they please on that common—everywhere, except in the little pond. Boys play ball on the fields, run races, and in everything that they do show that this is in verity a common—a playground for the people—not a pretty ornament only to be looked at. All credit to Boston for this display of great common sense and for this rich gift to her children.—New York Tribune.

Poisonous Fish.

I have known two kinds of poisonous fish in the Cape waters, one of them small and the other large. The latter kind is known by the local name of "keeler," and is, as a rule, good to eat, although the oil is the most profitable use it can be put to. Only at certain times is it poisonous. Cape fishermen declare that they can discern at these times a poisonous streak of water from its color, which they say is a dark dirty brown. It is said to be accompanied by an unusual display of phosphorus. Occasionally the mussels are poisonous, and one year several pig faced baboons out of a troop which have long haunted the Cape peninsula were picked up dead after eating them. Sly and sagacious as the baboons are in selecting their food they are scarcely wary enough to guard against this periodical epidemic.

Within recent years several Malay fishermen have died from the effects of eating the "keeler." Fortunately it is not a common fish, and experience in time may remind the Malays that when there are so many good fish in their waters it is folly to experiment upon the doubtful ones. The other poisonous fish is a small toadlike object, with a small mouth, which often takes the red bait intended for others. It puffs itself out with venomous wrath, and it is well to avoid handling it. The local name for it is "Billy blaas-op," or Billy blow-up.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Tortonia the Banker.

A striking instance of the elevation of a person from humble to exalted circumstances is found in the life of Tortonia, a celebrated banker of Rome, whose father was nothing more than a valet de place, or a guide, who showed about strangers for hire. Tortonia, who was an active, intelligent young man, at first entered into business in a small way as a jeweler. In course of time he became a sort of banker, and an unexpected circumstance brought him in contact with Cardinal Chiaramonti.

On the death of Pope Pius VI a conclave was to be held at Venice for the election of a new pope. Chiaramonti had expectations of being elected to the vacant office, but he was unable to attend the conclave for want of money. In this emergency he was supplied with a few hundred crowns by Tortonia. The cardinal now repaired to Venice, where, in the church of St. George, he was elected pope, under the title of Pius VII. In gratitude for this act of service the sovereign pontiff on his return to Rome appointed Tortonia banker to the court. He was created a marquis, and afterward a duke, and became one of the richest capitalists in Europe.—New York Ledger.

Petty Extortion.

"There is an abuse in the selling of newspapers against which there should be a general outcry by the victims," said ex-Governor R. C. McCormick to me recently. "I refer to the charging of an extra price to guests at hotels who buy papers at news stands, and to travelers who buy papers on trains. Of all public enterprises that are fostered by newspapers the railroads get more help ten times over than any other. Yet they allow the newspapers to be handicapped in sales on trains by an extra charge of one or two cents. The same thing is true at hotel news stands. There is no reason why the guest of a hotel should be compelled to pay two or three or four cents for a paper which he can buy on the curb in front for one or two or three cents. It is simply petty extortion, and it is probably because it is petty that no one raises serious objection to it."—New York Press.

He Didn't Get It.

London cabmen have many temptations to impose upon their "fares," and it is hardly to be wondered at that they sometimes catch a tartar in the attempt. The author of "The Philosopher in Slippers" says that a large part of their undue gains is derived from timid women, who find it difficult to withstand the inclination to give a cabman an extra sixpence after paying his proper fare, found that he was not disposed to be grateful.

"Well, mum," said he, ungraciously, "I'll take the money, but I don't thank you for it."

"You haven't it yet," said she, alertly withdrawing the sixpence, and he never did have it.

The Harmattan or Withering Wind.

The name of harmattan has been given a periodical wind which blows from the interior of Africa toward the Atlantic ocean during the three months of December, January and February. It sets in with a fog or dry haze which sometimes conceals the sun for whole weeks together. Every plant, bit of grass and leaf in its course is withered as though it had been seared by heat from a furnace; often within an hour after it begins to blow green grass is dry enough to burn like paper. Even the hardened natives lose all of the skin on exposed parts during the prevalence of this withering wind.—St. Louis Republic.

The Changing Styles.

Ethel—Don't you know, dear, that that last year's bonnet of yours is very unfashionable this year? The fashions change so.

Maud—Yes, and it is so nice for you that they do change. The same fashions come back every three or four years, and now your bonnet is in again.—Harper's Bazar.

THE WHEAT MARKET.

A demand for wheat in the United Kingdom and France has caused quite a flutter in the wheat market. In the past ten days that product has jumped from $1.59 to $1.85. In consequence flour has also went up and is now selling at $5.15 @ $6.25. As the harvest of cereals promises to be exceptionally fine in Sonoma county the coming season our farmers, we are sure, will not object to wheat and barley going still higher and staying there until their crops are disposed of.

BASALT BLOCKS.

The prospects for a revival of the basalt block industry in this place are now assured. Superintendent of Streets Jas. Gilleran of San Francisco is a warm advocate of basalt blocks and he has recommended among other things that the antediluvian cobble stones laid in that city in the year Way Back be replaced with basalt blocks in conformity with the spirit of modern progress.

THE State Board of Viticulture has reported that the shipments by water and by land of California wine during the month of March were greater than for any previous month in the history of the State. The figures, compiled by Secretary Scott, are as follows:

Overland 4124 cases or 615,509 gallons, by sea to New York via Panama 70 cases or 392,414 gallons, valued at $181,726; to Central America 247 cases, valued at $5,540; Mexico, 77 cases, valued at $3,775; Hawaii, 132 cases or 13,261 gallons, worth $9,883; British Columbia 25 cases or 2,111 gallons valued at $996; China and Japan 36 cases, 3146 gallons, value $1,204; Tahiti 607 gallons, value $199; Europe 9643 gallons, value $3,617; miscellaneous, etc., South America, Siberia, Fiji, etc., 42 cases, 1,375 gallons, valued at $1,148, making a total of 1,100,000 gallons or nearly double last year's output for the same month.

THE new gambling law, enacted by the last California Legislature, is as follows: "Every person who deals, plays or carries on, opens, or causes to be opened, or who conducts, either as owner or employee, whether for hire or not, any game of faro, monte, roulette, tan, fan-tan, twenty-one, hokey-pokey, or any banking or percentage game played with cards, dice or any devise, for money, checks, credit or other representative value, and every person who plays or bets against any of said games, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not less than $100 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Is John Bull hatching up a scheme to capture the President of the United States for the purpose of holding him as a hostage until certain disputed questions are settled. The mayor of the town of Victoria, British Columbia, has invited Mr. Harrison to visit that town when he gets in the neighborhood, which he will do this month.

WHEN the young Emperor of Germany has a spell of indigestion and speaks a little cross, as all of us are liable to do under similar circumstances, all Europe shivers with fear and the air is full of war rumors. Americans have many troubles, but, thank heaven fear of war isn't one of them.

FROM SANTA ROSA.

The Native Sons Capture the Town ...Other Matters.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

The Native Sons captured our city last week. Friday the advance agent of the "High Rollers," that cream of all comedian troupes, arrived in town and the arrangements for their entertainment last Saturday night were well made. To keep the ball rolling and have a big time, some hundred odd brethren from the various San Francisco parlors, came up to encourage enthusiasm. The performance was, to say the least, rich, novel and original, a surprise from beginning to end. In fact the bill boards and other advertisements had carefully concealed the true character of programme so well, that those who went took it all on faith and none were sorry or disappointed. The affair was only marred in the aftermath by the too frequent and liberal potations from the flowing bowl imbibed by some of the visitors. They used the vermillion in a most artistic manner. Two of the aforesaid individuals used it a little too freely in their bedchamber to suit mine host Tuttle and fell into the clutches of the inexorable minions of the law.

It is with much regret we notice in a recent issue of the INDEX-TRIBUNE the sad death of J. B. Badger of Agua Caliente. O. W. Craig, another old and respected citizen has also gone across the dark river. They have been long in your midst, honest, upright, law-abiding citizens, men who were useful to the community in which they resided. But yet as time creeps on we see them gradually dropping away from the cares and struggles of this life and joining the great silent majority in the unknown beyond.

We saw D. D. Davisson in town the other day and had a pleasant chat with him. Oh, but how he astonished us with tales of the halcyon days of yore. About his early adventures upon the site of our flourishing city; about camping beneath the sturdy and majestic oak where now our handsome court house towers heavenward. And yet Dan denies old age and says he is one of the boys yet! Next.

We expect to see a good number of the Sonoma boys up next week in attendance on the Grand Parlor. Western Star Parlor is making very great preparations for the entertainment and pleasure of those who attend the session of the Grand Parlor, as well as for the delegates.

John McMinn, Jr., the ever-pleasant John, is prominently spoken of for the office of Grand Trustee. He is popular and will make a good officer. BOZ.

Carriger-O'Brien Nuptials.

The wedding of W. W. Carriger and Miss Katie O'Brien took place Tuesday, the 14th, at the Catholic Church in this city. The fair bride is the daughter of John O'Brien, a wealthy resident of Sonoma Valley, who has long been identified with the interests of that place. She is a lovely and accomplished young lady. The groom is the son of Mrs. N. Carriger, a well known and highly respected lady of this valley.

The bride was attired in a handsome robe of blue faille Francaise made with a court train, and draped gracefully with white chiffon and fine Vallenciennes lace. The corsage was cut V shaped. Her flowing veil was of white twilled moline, and her gloves were of white undressed kid. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Nellie O'Brien, the maid of honor, appeared in a becoming toilet of pale baby blue French crepe, made with a demi-train. It was draped with point lace. The corsage was cut round, with Valois sleeves ending in a fall of lace. She carried La France roses. The Church was beautifully decorated, and contained a large number of friends of the young couple. The wedding march was played at 12:30 o'clock as the bridal party made its appearance. Rev. J. Sullivan, officated, performing the ceremony with due impressiveness. Congratulations to the couple were in order immediately after the ceremony. At the conclusion the bridal party and guests were driven to the O'Brien family residence. There was a sumptuous lunch, and the champagne flowed freely. Many toasts were offered and responded to, only the intimate friends and relatives being present. The fairest of spring blossoms had been lavishly used in decorating the residence, which was made particularly attractive. The newly married couple departed on the 3:20 train for San Francisco, amid showers of rice and old shoes, and on the following day left for Southern California, where they will visit all places of interest. The wedding gifts were of exceptional elegance. TEMP.

Protect Your Health.

Cold and moisture combined have a torporising effect upon the bodily organs, and the digestive and secretive processes are apt to be more tardily performed in winter than in the fall. The same is true, also of the excretory functions. The bowels are often sluggish, and the pores of the skin throw off but little waste matter at this season. The system, therefore, requires opening up a little, and also purifying and regulating, and the safest, surest and most thorough tonic and alterative that can be used for those purposes is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persons who wish to escape the rheumatic twinges, the dyspeptic agonies, the painful disturbances of the bowels, the bilious attacks and the nervous visitations, so common at this time of the year, will do well to reinforce their systems with this renowned vegetable stomachic and invigorant. It improves the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cheers the spirits, and renovates the whole physique.

The undersigned begs leave to inform the public that he has removed his paint shop from Broadway to the old Union Livery Stable building on Napa street, where he will be pleased to receive all orders for house, sign and carriage painting. A good job guaranteed in every instance. HENRY BARON. *

What Becomes of the Newsboys?

What becomes of the newsboys who swarm in the city? The man who knew the most about that subject was the late Charles L. Brice, of the Children's Aid society. Some of them, as they grow up, get places in stores and other business houses; some find employment as apprentices at trades; some strike out for themselves by leaving town to try their luck elsewhere; many die from hardship and exposure before reaching the age of 15; not a few take advantage of the privileges offered by the Children's Aid society and thus get along in life; some of them do quite well in the world. A large proportion are very smart boys.—New York Sun.

DEATH OF A SONOMA BOY.

John T. Schuster, After a Short Illness, Expires in San Francisco.

John T. Schuster, who was born and raised in Sonoma, died in San Francisco last Thursday morning after an illness of less than two weeks. Johnny Schuster was not only well-known to the old residents of Sonoma, but had gained a world-wide reputation as an athlete. It was only a few short months ago that deceased, with a number of brother members of the Olympic Club of San Francisco gave an athletic exhibition in this place to a large audience of his old friends and acquaintances. He was in the prime of life and the perfect picture of health, and the announcement of his death was a shock to his many friends in this valley. Johnny Schuster was born in the old Schuster residence on First-street East, which is one of the old landmarks of Sonoma about 24 years ago. With his cousin Clement J. Schuster, he had recently had the cottage renovated and made cozy and intended to occupy the same the coming spring and summer as a rural retreat. The cause of deceased's death is supposed to have been from an injury received in this place years ago, while attending our public school A toy pistol exploded in his pants pocket, inflicting a serious injury to his thigh. Lockjaw supervened and after a hard struggle he apparently recovered. Later on he went to Heidelberg, Germany, and had an operation performed on his face, but only temporary relief was afforded.

Johnny Schuster was a young man of excellent traits of character and his demise in the full flush of manhood is sad indeed. His remains will be brought to this place for interment in Mountain Cemetery to-day. The funeral will take piace at 1 P. M. to-morrow.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

A Bounteous Harvest and Good Times Ahead.

The weather the past week has been quite warm and in consequence crops of all kinds are making rapid growth. The yield of fruit of all kinds promises to be exceptionally heavy, while hay and grain never looked better at this season of the year. Prices for all kinds of farm products promises to be high this season and what with a heavy yield and good prices lively times and money in plenty are bound to take the place of the present stagnation in business which is not only prevailing in Sonoma, but likewise all over the State.

Died Intestate

The late O. W. Craig died intestate. Years ago he made a will, which he subsequently destroyed, owing to the death of one of the witnesses to the instrument. A few days before he died he sent for an attorney to draw up another, but before he arrived Mr. Craig became unconscious and remained so up to the day of his death. Deceased left an estate worth between $40,000 and $50,000. One half of which as community property belongs to the widow. Mr. and Mrs. Craig had been married 42 years.

Brutally Beaten.

Albert Zbinder, a young German, aged 21 years, employed on the farm of Ed. Steiger, was attacked on the Glen Ellen bridge at 10 o'clock last Saturday night and fearfully beaten about the face. He lay insensible on the bridge for a long time, but finally regained consciousness and managed to stagger home, where he arrived at three o'clock Sunday morning drenched in blood. He claims that his assailant was Tim Sullivan, a young blacksmith of Glen Ellen.

Sonoma Valley's Summer Resort.

The Agua Caliente Springs Hotel opened for the season this week, under the management of the proprietor M. K. Cady, who has completely renovated the hotel, improved the grounds and added new features to its many attractions. The hotel is located in one of the most picturesque spots in California, and is destined at no distant day to be to this State what Saratoga is to New York.

Snyder vs. Sears.

A motion for a new trial in the land suit of Snyder vs. Sears was made and denied in the Superior Court last Monday. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court.

Death of a Prominent Horticulturist.

E. A. Rogers, well-known to the farmers of Sonoma Valley, died at his home near Santa Rosa, Monday of pneumonia, after an illness of only a few days. Deceased was an Odd Fellow, a member of the Sonoma County Horticultural Society and a prominent Granger.

Ramie.

Great interest is being taken in Ramie culture in various parts of the State and there is a great demand for roots. Up to the present time 150 acres have been set out in various localities.

THE PEAR BLIGHT.

Spraying Commenced—Good Results Already Obtained.

Pears, including Bartletts, Buerre Clargo, Dearborn Seedling and Winter Nelies, which showed a tendency to "pear blight" about a week ago, are being sprayed in this valley with good results. Many of our orchardists are using IXL Compound, others use the Bordeaux remedy, while some prefer the Excelsior. These, particularly the IXL Compound, not only check the fungoid growth, but destroy the red spider, codling moth and San Jose scale, which at this time are making another deposit of eggs, and now is the best time to spray according to the authority of those who are well informed on insect pests.

THE LATE O. W. CRAIG.

The Obsequies of the Pioneer of Sonoma Valley.

The funeral of the late O. W. Craig took place last Sunday afternoon. The remains were followed to Mountain Cemetery by one of the largest funeral corteges that has been seen in Sonoma since the death of General Vallejo. The funeral services were conducted in the Congregational Church by Rev. D. H. Reid, assisted by his father Rev. Dr. Reid of Victoria. The floral pieces, the last sad offerings of relatives and friends, were both profuse and magnificent. The pall bearers were Messrs. O. B. Shaw, J. V. Miner, C. F. Carmer, T. M. Dunn, Robert Howe and J. B. Morris.

At Rest.

The remains of the late J. B. Badger, the California Pioneer and Mexican War veteran, were laid to rest in Cypress Hill Cemetery, Petaluma, last Saturday. The pall bearers were Capt. H. E. Boyes, Robt. Poppe, J. B. Morris, E. Steiger and H. H. Granice, friends of deceased. The floral offerings were both beautiful and profuse, and completely covered the mound of earth which marks the last resting place of the courtly gentleman, the scholar and old soldier. All of deceased relatives were present as follows: Mrs. C. F. Badger, the widow, Clarence and Willie Badger of Agua Caliente; G. H. Badger of Reno, Nevada, sons of deceased; Misses Josie and Ella Badger of San Francisco, daughters; and Wm. G. Badger and Miss Badger of San Francisco, brother and niece. Mr. Badger, at the time of his death, was drawing a soldier's pension of nearly forty dollars per month. This, together with an insurance on his life, leaves his family well provided for.

The Naval Cadetship.

The examination for a naval cadetship held by Prof. H. C. Petray, A. G. Burnett and J. S. Austin was concluded in Santa Rosa last Tuesday and resulted in the selection of Harry P. Standley. There were thirteen competitors as follows: Harry H. Standley, J. Thompson, S. V. West, G. B. Murphy, H. D. Noonan, W. J. Blevin, C. W. Murray, Chas. Hottinger, L. F. Brown, G. Murdock, Thos. M. Menihan, G. H. Hampson and B. M. Towne. Harry Standley, the successful competitor, is the son of Sheriff Standley of Mendocino, age 18 years and is 5 feet 8 inches in height.

Asparagus.

The Napa Bee states that City Clerk Raney of that city raises his own asparagus, and in commenting on the same says: "It is the best vegetable a lazy man can plant as it raises itself. Have your bed made and filled with rich manure, and then plant your asparagus roots, and you will have no further trouble. It will grow and thrive for many years. Mr. Raney got a sack of course salt the other day and sowed on his asparagus bed. Some of the neighbors thought he was trying to kill it, and when he told them he was fertilizing the bed, they laughed. But asparagus thrives on salt and as the salt kills the weeds its serves a double purpose."

Sonoma Has a Spring Poet.

The Sonoma correspondent of the Santa Rosa Republican can write spring poetry as well as prose. Hear him:

The grass is so lovely, as high as your knees,
And the fragrance of fruit blossoms float on the breeze.
And Granice, of strawberries, now has his fill,
And the "escholtzia" gilds both the valley and hill.

A Railway that Pays.

The annual report of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company has been filed with the Railroad Commissioners. It shows the year's earnings to be $799,388; operating expenses, $572,102; net profits, $277,286. The main line is only 106 miles long and the capital stock, $6,000,000.

SPOTTERS ON THE HORSE CARS.

How Conductors Learn to Recognize Them and Pass the Word.

Every street car line in New York employs from forty to sixty "spotters," who are paid twenty cents a round trip, and whose business it is to see that the fares received are rung up on the car indicators.

"It's the easiest thing in the world," said a Broadway car conductor, "for us to spot them. In the first place they have to keep track of every person who gets on the car, and they can't be seen taking notes. The usual method is for the spotter to carry a pocketful of beans. As a passenger gets on the car he transfers a bean from the full pocket to an empty one, and when he leaves the car, as he usually does when it nearly reaches the terminus, he looks at the indicator, and at his leisure counts the beans and sees if the number tallies with that shown on the register.

"Usually the spotter gets on the car about five blocks from the starting place. One of them once told a friend of mine that he had two pockets in one, so that he didn't have to take his hand out at all. The spotter's word is always taken, and it is seldom that a conductor gets anything but his dismissal notice.

"There is no appeal from his report. Seven trips a day is the average made by these men, and if they do not report a man or two a week the officials think they are not attending to business. There is one consolation to honest conductors, however, and that is that the spotters have men to watch them, and no one spotter is known to another. Their statements are all mailed to the car superintendent at his residence, and they get their pay each month by mail. It sometimes happens that two will board the same car unknown to each other, and perhaps give in different reports. Whenever I am sure of a spotter I give him the sixth degree as he gets off the car.

"I can't tell you how it is done, but it works to a charm, and before night four or five other conductors know him, and the next day he is known to as many more, so that in a few weeks most of us 'get on,' as the boys say. It never fails, and the spotter becomes a walking sign to the men on the road, whose eyes are as keen as can be."—New York World.

He Kept the Watch.

Gen. Bligh and his wife happened to arrive at a Yorkshire inn when there was only just so much in the larder as was sufficient for them, and of course they bespoke it. Some sporting gentlemen presently arrived, and on hearing what had happened asked who was the guest. "An Irish officer," said the landlord; whereupon one said: "Oh, if he's Irish a potato will do for him. Here, take my watch up to him"—(a very handsome gold one) "and ask him what's o'clock." The inquiry had doubtless some impertinent significance in those days, which it has now lost. At all events, it brought down the general, with the watch in his hand and a pistol under each arm.

"I am come," he said, "to tell you what o'clock it is. Whose watch is this?" Everybody hastened to deny any knowledge of it whatever. "Then I have made a mistake," said the general, "in the company. I received an impudent message, which I came down to resent, but I find I have come to the wrong room." The watch, which would have paid his dinner bill fifty times over, he kept to his death, and left it by will to his brother, the dean of Elphin.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Modifications of Iron.

Add carbon to pure iron and it becomes steel. Add a hydro carbon to iron, and steel itself becomes so extensively modified that its properties are not recognizable. Thus steel may be as soft as pure iron. Add hydrogen in varying quantity, and it has the quality of resilience, as in the watch spring, or the quality of tenacity, as in the knife of a razor, or may be given nearly all the hardness of a diamond, as in a file. With steel at a low temperature, from 400 degs. to 450 degs. Fahrenheit, edge tools are produced, and color in the yellow shades; from 500 degs. to 525 degs. various sorts of springs are produced, color blue; while by heating iron to whiteness and plunging it into water, which is mainly composed of hydrogen, files are produced or forms even harder.—Chicago News.

Corea.

Corea has no political connection of any sort with either Russia or England. It holds a sort of relation of dependence to China, however. That is to say, the "hermit nation" acknowledges the suzerainty of China, and has done so for the past 200 years. Its government, to a large extent, is modeled after that of China, and on the frontier between it and China there are trade regulations favorable to the latter. Virtually, though, Corea, so far as regards all the rest of the world, except China, is an independent country. It has its own line of monarchs, and its own laws and regulations.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Chinese Passport.

In China a traveler wishing for a passport is compelled to have the palm of his hand brushed over with fine oil paint. He then passes his hand on thin, damp paper, which retains an impression of the lines. This is used to prevent transference of the passport, as the lines of no two hands are alike. The cunning Chinese have also discovered that the impression of no two persons' thumbs are alike, and also that the impression of no one person's two thumbs are alike.—London Tit-Bits.

Wonderful, if True.

A Colorado rancher relates the following story, which, by the way, is a a little bit too far fetched even to be implicitly believed by the editor, whose gullability is notorious. The story is given for what it is worth: "As most people know, black wool brings from five to ten cents less per pound than the corresponding grade of white wool. In order to insure the separation of the inferior product, as our shearing operations progressed, we once placed the black sheep in a pen by themselves. There were sixty-three of the black sheep thus isolated in the corral on the night I speak of. Some time during the darkness a wolf, 'coyote,' as we call it, entered the pen and killed a ewe and two lambs. On the following morning we were greatly surprised to find that the wool on the remaining sixty had turned perfectly white from terror." It is reported that the author of this story is a church member in good standing.—St. Louis Republic.

The Small Boy's Revelation.

It is the small boy who usually tells things, and the dinner table is his favorite theatre. Not long ago a bright little fellow out on Peachtree street peered over into the dish at the head of the table and exclaimed:

"What a little chicken for so many people!"

The company smiled surreptitiously, and his mother endeavored to quiet him, but he was like Banquo's ghost. After they had all been helped and were eating his face suddenly lit up, and clapping his hands he shouted:

"Oh, yes; I know now, mamma. This is the little chicken that was sick so long in the yard, ain't it?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Washington's Pugnacity.

It is related of John Adams that when Stuart exhibited his portrait of Gen. Washington Mr. Adams went to see it. After gazing at it for several minutes he exclaimed, "That's the portrait of a man who knew how to hold his tongue, which this old fool never did!"

The portrait does indicate that the original could be reticent, but it also shows that he could control himself. The square, massive jaw, the full, broad based nose, and the compressed lips express pugnacity and passion, such as require a strong will to keep them in subjection.

Sometimes even Washington allowed his passion to have sway.

When Glover's Marblehead fishermen and Morgan's Virginia riflemen were engaged in a rough and tumble fight Washington leaped his horse over the bars of the camp fence, dashed among the rioters, threw himself off, seized two brawny riflemen by the throat, and shaking them at arm's length subdued not only them, but the whole band.

It was the victory due to commanding strength, presence and manner. The men saw that they must obey, and they obeyed.—Youth's Companion.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma and all throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

La Grippe Again.

During the epidemic of La Grippe last season Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, proved to be the best remedy. Reports from the many who used it confirm this statement. They were not only quickly relieved, but the disease left no bad after results. We ask you to give this remedy a trial and we guarantee that you will be satisfied with results, or the purchase price refunded. It has no equal in La Grippe, or any Throat, Chest or Lung Trouble. Trial bot les free at all. Wegner's Drug Store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes 'Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Liver and Kidney trouble." John Leslie, a farmer and stockman, of the same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine: made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies: he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at Ed. Wegner's Drug Store.

"August Flower"

The Hon. J. W. Fennimore is the Sheriff of Kent Co., Del., and lives at Dover, the County Seat and Capital of the State. The sheriff is a gentleman fifty-nine years of age, and this is what he says: "I have "used your August Flower for several years in my family and for my "own use, and found it does me "more good than any other remedy. "I have been troubled with what I "call Sick Headache. A pain comes "in the back part of my head first, "and then soon a general headache "until I become sick and vomit. "At times, too, I have a fullness "after eating, a pressure after eating "at the pit of the stomach, and "sourness, when food seemed to rise "up in my throat and mouth. When "I feel this coming on if I take a "little August Flower it relieves "me, and is the best remedy I have "ever taken for it. For this reason "I take it and recommend it to "others as a great remedy for Dyspepsia, &c." ③

A BIG FLOOD.

The only thing that will wet a man who wears a "Fish Brand Slicker" is a flood; but even then he must be under water. This statement may seem strong, but a coat that will stand a two days' storm without leaking, and will not rip or tear, is sure to fill the bill. The additional advantage is that it costs less and wears longer than any other waterproof coat. Have you one? If not, why do you wait until it rains? Sold everywhere. Buy it now. It is a great mistake to wait until it rains to buy a waterproof coat. The time to buy is when the dealer has a clean, fresh stock. Be sure the coat is stamped with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark, and you will get the best waterproof coat ever made. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.
